INTRODUCTION

This report presents final 1961 population totals by census tracts for the urban centres shown in the table below, with comparative figures from the 1956 Census.

Census tracts are statistical units which have been established in 23 of the larger cities and census metropolitan areas. They are designed with a view to providing basic census statistics for homogeneous areas with respect to economic status and living conditions. As far as possible, they are established as permanent areas and as such, are of further value in disclosing trends within sections of large urban communities. In Canada, census tracts were established in co-operation with local authorities requesting this type of information. Wherever possible, local committees were formed to delineate these areas.

In addition to the summary population totals contained in this report, detailed statistical information by census tracts will be issued in a special series of bulletins. (See brochure "Publications of the 1961 Census of Canada" available from the Information and Public Relations Division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.) In these bulletins, information will be available on basic population, household and family, and labour force characteristics, as well as housing data based on a 20 p.c. sample.

The table below gives the number of tracts in each centre as well as the page references for the population counts and index maps in this report.

Le présent rapport donne les résultats définitifs de la population de 1961 par secteur de recensement dans les centres urbains indiqués au tableau ci-dessous, ainsi que les chiffres correspondants du recensement de 1956.

Les secteurs de recensement sont des subdivisions statistiques qui ont été établies dans 23 grandes villes et zones métropolitaines. Ils ont été conçus de façon à fournir la statistique de base du recensement sur des régions homogènes quant à la situation économique et aux conditions de vie. Autant que possible, ils sont constitués de façon permanente et, comme tels, sont encore plus précieux pour discerner les tendances intimes des secteurs des grandes villes. Au Canada, les secteurs de recensement ont été établis en collaboration avec les autorités locales qui avaient demandé des renseignements dans cet ordre d'idées. Des comités locaux ont été créés partout où il a été possible de le faire, et chargés de délimiter les secteurs.

Pour compléter la statistique sommaire de la population du présent rapport, une série spéciale de bulletins donnera des statistiques détaillées par secteur de recensement. (Voir la brochure "Publications du recensement du Canada de 1961" qu'on peut se procurer à la Division de l'information et des relations extérieures du Bureau fédéral de la statistique.) Ces bulletins donneront des renseignements sur les caractéristiques fondamentales de la population, des ménages et des familles et de la main-d'oeuvre ainsi que des données sur l'habitation fondées sur un échantillon de 20 p. 100.

Le tableau ci-après donne le nombre de secteurs dans chaque centre ainsi que les pages du présent rapport où paraissent le chiffre de la population et les cartes-Index.
